

WHERE CAN THEY BE?
Wife is searching in the garret
And behind each closet door;
She is dumping out the rag bag,
She is tearing up the floor;
She is searching in the woodshed,
Digging, poking all the while
For the hips discarded last year,
For they are again in style.

PRE-HISTORIC COIN

Dug Up in Boyle County—Oldest Known in This Country

George Anderson of Boyle county has in his possession one of the oldest coins ever seen in this State. It was found by a Negro, who was digging a well on Mr. Anderson's farm, fifty feet below the surface of the earth.

The coin appears to be of a metal similar to bronze and is about the size and the thickness of a biscuit. Upon one side of the coin is the image of a pre-historic king with an inscription in a language unreadable to any of the scholars of that section. Upon the other side is the image of a bird. The coin was sent to John M. Wilms, the Louisville coin expert. He said that it was one of the oldest coins ever seen by him and valued it very highly.

The professor of ancient history at Central University is unable to designate the original producer of the coin, but attributes it to some of the American aborigines.

An Eastern sport discusses the coming Jeffries-Johnson battle thusly: "Jeffries is 225 pounds of fighting brute, seemingly impervious to punishment, and with a terrible smash in either arm. Johnson is 200 pounds of muscle and lightning with apparently an irresistible right. It will be a splendid battle."
